Okeechobee tenants strike still boiling

FRLS rapped by officials

By Dean Jones
BELLE GLADE — Two Washington officials visited the area last Wednesday to see if the rent strike by tenants at Okeechobee Center fits part of a pattern in national actions supported by Legal Services Corporations.
Howard Phillips, a member of the Conservative Caucus who chairs the Committee to Defeat Legal Services, and Mike Hammond, a special counsel to the Senate Steering Committee, said they had met with members of the Belle Glade Housing Authority to get information on the rent strike.
After earlier meetings, they met with members of the Western Palm Beach County Farm Bureau at the Farm Bureau office on Fokker Highway, telling them they were out for nothing less than the elimination of legal services corporations all over the country, including Florida Rural Legal Services, Inc., which engineered the strike here.
Al French of the Florida Farm Bureau, who introduced the two speakers, said the strike could put the Housing Authority in a precarious position, particularly insofar as the $5 million grant and loan from Farmers Home Administration is concerned.
French said FmHA can't release the money as long as the rent strike continues.
Phillips said he is interested in the Legal Services program as a simple matter of justice. "I believe," he said, "it is more a program for lawyers than for poor people."

TAKING A LOOK at careers they might have waiting for them once they graduate, juniors and seniors from Pahokee High School inspect the frame machine at West Technical Center. The occasion was Career Day at West Tech and some 550 students from Pahokee, Glades Central and Glades Day High Schools toured the center to see what was being offered them in the way of vocational and technical courses.

...But tenants continue strike

By Alma Henry
BELLE GLADE — Members of Okeechobee Center Crisis Help vowed to continue their eight-week rent strike against the Belle Glade Housing Authority last Wednesday night, Feb. 4.
"We will continue the strike until they come crawling," said Donald Mason, legal advisor for the group.
At a meeting in the housing authority recreation building the tenants said they would stick together and continue the strike although Judge Alcee Hastings at a federal court hearing in Fort Lauderdale recommended the strike be called off and the tenants and housing authority board members work together for a solution to the problem.
Mason, Florida Rural Legal Services managing attorney, told more than 100 tenants gathered for the meeting Judge Hastings refused to hear his motion ruling the tenant association did not have standing to represent the small number of people Mason represented to get a temporary restraining order to stop the eviction of 13 tenants.
"I think he's wrong. I think he's dead wrong in his ruling," said Mason.
Mason said the Housing Authority attorney, Margaret Cooper said she agreed to wait three days for the tenants to meet before she took further action on the evictions.
Mason said he had a surprise for the housing authority and was to file papers in federal court Thursday to stop the evictions. Mason would not reveal the nature of his motions for fear someone would "run and tell Harvey Poole and David Motes before morning."
Rudean Butts, the association treasurer, said the housing authority was "hand picking" the people who received the first eviction notices.
Ms. Butts said the association had information about tenants who do not belong to OCHC and who are not paying rent to the housing authority, but have not been served with eviction notices.
At the hearing, Mason said Hastings' expressed concern that if the strike continues, the $5 million grant and loan which the authority has been approved to receive from the Farmers Home Administration would be in jeopardy.
The Housing Authority has been working for two years to obtain the $5 million to construct new homes in Okeechobee Center.
At press time Wednesday a source that asked not to be identified said the rent strike should be called off Wednesday evening.

Mason criticizes story

By DEAN JONES

BELLE GLADE—Florida Rural Legal Services Managing Attorney Don Mason took issue with a story printed in last week's Herald-Observer, saying several of the comments attributed to U.S. District Judge Alcee Hastings were erroneous.
Included in the differences of opinions on what was said during and after a hearing before Judge Hastings Monday, Feb. 2, as reported to the Herald-Observer by Belle Glade Housing Authority director David Motes, Mason said.
"He had appeared before Judge Hastings to ask for a temporary restraining order on seven proposed evictions, not an injunction. He agreed with Motes that Hastings refused to hear the request because Mason had no standing, explaining that the seven evictions would have no appreciable effect on the rest of the tenants."
"That Hastings never said he didn't believe Mason and the tenants had followed Farmers Home Administration procedures, that he only questioned Mason as to whether he had followed the guidelines and Mason told him he had."
"That Hastings told him that he was playing a dangerous game in the way he was handling the escrow account because a state judge might not interpret the law the same as Mason and would find in the Housing Authorities favor. Mason said he agreed."
"That although Hastings said he is aware of the conditions at Okeechobee Center and that the Housing Authority needs the money to operate and there should be some way to work out the differences, he didn't say anything about turning the money being collected from the strikers back over to the Housing Authority."

"That Hastings said he didn't believe the federal government would withhold a $5 million grant-loan when it would penalize the tenants, going further by saying that if that's the FMHA policy, it's wrong."
"That there was no discussion about turning Okeechobee Center over to the tenants but that he did ask if Okeechobee Center Crisis Help (OCHC, the tenant's association) has enough members to be a credible representative of the tenants in the center."
"That Hastings didn't request the Housing Authority to hold up eviction action. Mason said he was the one who made the request and the Authority attorneys granted it with no question."
Mason said he didn't believe Motes was attempting to mislead anyone by his statements last week. "Mr. Motes is a good man," Mason said, "but he's a layman and I don't believe he understood what happened."
(EDITOR'S NOTE: Mr. Motes was the only source for the story because he was the only person who could be reached for comment by the Herald-Observer at the time. Calls to both Mason and Judge Hastings weren't returned.)
Motes responded later by saying he thought the story was reported accurately and reflected what happened in the judge's chambers. The same comment had been made, just before Mason first called to say the story was inaccurate by Okeechobee Center Manager Harvey Poole.

'Misspelled' spells win

BELLE GLADE—An old fashioned school-wide spelling bee at Glades Central Community High School ended in irony Monday when 11th grader Tim Davis eliminated the last of 62 finalists, according to Sarah Bennett, speech and drama teacher who sponsored the event.
Davis, a student in Joan Ling's class, swept to a win when he correctly spelled the word, "misspelled."

Osceola to strike?

PAHOKEE — There's a possibility of a strike at Osceola Farms Company, located just east of Pahokee off US98, if a mediator can't work out an acceptable solution to the contract negotiations between Osceola Farms and International Association of Machinists and Aerospace workers.
The contract between Osceola Farms and the Union expired on Feb. 4. The union and Osceola began negotiations on Jan. 12 up until Saturday Feb. 7 and still had not come up with a contract acceptable to both parties.
If the mediator cannot work out an acceptable agreement and a strike is called more than 300 workers will be affected.
The union represents truck drivers and the workers on Osceola Farms.
The mediator was to begin meeting with officials of Osceola Farms and the Union Wednesday.

Prisoner of Second Avenue banned in Pahokee

By DEAN JONES
PAHOKEE—The Prisoner of Second Avenue became the prisoner of a Pahokee controversy but the Prince Theatre Foundation liberated the play, being put on by the Glades Theatre Group, from the premises.
The Foundation, acting on the advice of the Rev. Ray Simmons, pastor of the Church of God in Pahokee and President of the Ministerial Association, decided last Thursday to bar the Neil Simon comedy from the theatre.
Dr. Barry Russal, an associate professor of English and Drama at Palm Beach Junior College-Glades and director of the Glades Theatre Group, said he has been assured the play will still be performed but it will be at PBJC rather than in Pahokee.
Russal said the decision to carry on with the play came when Foundation members told cast members during what was to have been the Thursday rehearsal that the play couldn't be performed at the Prince because language in the script was blasphemous, obscene and offensive.

"I felt the real loser was the Prince Theatre," Russal said Monday, "because they'd lost the theatre program. I still feel that way."
Russal met with members of the Foundation and Rev. Simmons Thursday before the rehearsal was scheduled to discuss the play. When he was asked if certain words could be eliminated from the play, he told the Foundation members there is a proviso in the script which prohibits changes or deletions without direct permission from the author.
Russal said the only options still available were to stop the production completely or find somewhere else to perform it.
He said it would be performed in Room SC102 at the college, noting that future plays would be no problem because the Glades campus auditorium is supposed to be ready for use in October.
Russal said the theatre group formed last fall after several calls from people who said they would like to see a group formed to perform plays at both the college and the Prince Theatre.

"I spoke to the Foundation," he said, "and they invited me to start the group and eventually, when our auditorium was completed, we'd share projects."
Russal said he asked the Foundation members then about any restrictions involved. "They said they wanted basically family entertainment," he said, "no explicit sex or nudity. I asked about restrictions on language and it got a little vague but they said a few curse words wouldn't matter. I said I would check with them if I thought there would be any problems."
"This week, (last week) Doris Wetherington, president of the Foundation, called me and said they were very upset with the script," Russal said. "She said some people with the foundation had met and decided they wanted the language changed."
He said that was when he informed Mrs. Wetherington about the warning in the script. He said the warning is very clear that any change would mean a violation in the copyright laws and that such a warning is commonplace.

Mrs. Wetherington said Monday that the Foundation asked Rev. Simmons to read the script and give his opinion. She said he told them after he had read it that he wouldn't want his children to see the play if it was performed according to the script.
"None of us knew about the language that was in there," she said. "We found the language very offensive. We want the Prince Theatre to be used to provide family entertainment. We do not want anything obscene or offensive."
"We've got to live with the churches," she said, explaining why the Foundation asked Rev. Simmons to read the script.
"I find the language in the play offensive. It's blasphemous. I think anybody who reads the Bible would know that," she said.
"Maybe I'm old fashioned and maybe I'm not familiar with what kind of language is being used in plays today," she said, "but I don't care if we have to go back to the Forties for the material; let's get away from the ugly talk."

So. Fla. Conservancy cap may be lifted

By Dean Jones

BELLE GLADE — South Florida Conservancy District Chairman Clarence "Smoky" Knecht asked for, and received, the city commission's backing for a request before the Palm Beach County Legislative Delegation next week for an increase in taxes to speed up the District's work and beat inflation.

The commissioners will assess the full $20 maintenance tax, settling for an initial increase of about $2 to $14.

He said the District has been working for about 15 years now and has only reached about 30 per cent of its goals of 120 miles channel work on land that stretches from just south of Hooker's Point on the west to Six Mile Bend on the east and Runyon Camp on the north, an area that includes 32,750 acres.

District Director Jim Kilpatrick said later the remaining 70 per cent of work to be accomplished can be completed by 1987, if projections are accurate, and farmers working on the land can benefit by using more land than they can now use effectively.

Knecht said he will appear before the Legislative Delegation next Tuesday to ask that the cap be lifted. If the delegation approves, it will go before the entire legislature when it goes into session in March.

Kilpatrick said the next step would be a landowners meeting on Mar. 10 to ask for their approval of the increase in taxes.

City Commissioner Charles Goodlett said, when Commissioner Dorothy Walker said she wanted more time to consider the request because she didn't know enough about it, that the increase will only be a major factor for large landowners and he understands they generally are in favor of it.

Kilpatrick said a meeting of the large landowners has already been held to let them know of the need for the increase and they expressed agreement with the need.

"No one wants to pay more taxes," he said, "but they see the need for it. Some time back, we floated a bond issue to do some work on some of the land in the district and the farmers are now reaping the benefit of the extra cost by being able to work land they were never able to use before."

The initial increase, should the legislature and landowners approve it, would provide the District with an additional increase in its budget of just under $295,000 a year.

Kilpatrick said the extra money would mean the District could let contracts for larger projects, which would mean more work would be done faster and a possible savings because of volume.

Prisons are misunderstood: GCI superintendent

BY DEAN JONES

BELLE GLADE—Prisons are the most misunderstood businesses today, Glades Correctional Institution Superintendent R.V. "Bob" Turner told local Rotarians Tuesday, and Prison discipline is the most misunderstood facet of prisons.

"The prison business has the ability to hatch more experts than any other business I know of," Turner said. "All too often, we have legislators members of the press come through GCI and in 15 minutes they know all about it."

He said the visiting firemen seldom have to ask him questions about prisons either. If the prison business creates experts, however, he said there is little correlation with the general slowdown in business.

"Business continues to be good," he quipped to the appreciative audience. "We don't have any lack of business at GCI and we don't expect any lack of business."

He said there have been changes made at GCI, not all of which he agrees with.

"We're a little closer to town now," he said. "I'm not too sure that's a good thing, for a major prison to be too close to a town."

He said he was also concerned about the fact the Palm Beach County School Board has requested another 40 acres adjacent to the West Technical Center on SR 715 as a site on which to build a proposed consolidated high school.

He said he is in favor of education and likes to cooperate but he would rather the school be built a little further away from a major prison.

"We don't have anybody out there," he said, "who was sent to us for singing too loud in the Methodist Church choir. We do have some fellows who would rather be some place else."

Turner read off a computer printout the sentences being served by a number of men who work at the GCI kitchen. One of the men was sentenced to five years, a couple to ten years and the rest ranged from 15 years to life imprisonment.

To make matters more vivid, he pointed out that in one recent instance, an inmate was nearing the end of his sentence and Turner reviewed his record as he normally did.

"He had a ten year sentence," Turner said, "but I found out by reading his record that he was another Jesse James." He said the inmate had been charged with numerous other counts but, through plea bargaining, the other charges had been dropped when the inmate pled guilty to the one charge.

Turner said one of the problems is that there is too many different philosophies about prisons and prisoners and how to treat them.

"Some people think we're to lenient," he said. "They think the prisoners should be chained out in the yard. That's incorrect."

"I could pull all of my guards out of the compound, station them outside and order them to shoot anyone who approached the fence," he said, "but you know how 800 men in that kind of situation would act. They'd be beating each other ...and possibly killing each other."

He said that most of the inmates at GCI, and throughout Florida's prisons, mind their own business and are only trying to do their time so they can serve their sentences and get released. He said there are some, however, about 200 at GCI and perhaps 2,000 of the 20,000 state prisoners, who are troublemakers who will continually "raise sand" no matter where they are.

Other people, who Turner described as "do-gooders," feel prisons are too harsh on inmates, that the criminal justice system should explore more ways of finding alternative forms of punishment, even to the point of doing away with prisons altogether.

"Unfortunately," he said, "they're incorrect too. They think we should take these poor, misguided boys each morning and tell them, 'Gentlemen, this is what we'd like you to do today.'"

"We have some of the worst of the worst out there (at GCI)," he said. "We do not have a very nice place and I'm of the philosophy we shouldn't have."

"You as taxpayers," he told the Rotarians, "are currently paying a bill for about 20,000 prisoners in 28 major institutions throughout the state, and for about another 45,000 who are on parole. That's costing you $158 million this year and the cost will probably go up next year."

Discussing prison discipline, Turner said he recently received a proposed bill of about 100 pages dealing with the question.

"They didn't have the input of a single person," he said, "who has anything to do with prisons. They didn't ask me what I thought about it because they've heard me speak before and they don't like what I have to say." He said he did, however, notify a staff person that when the time comes for public comment, he does have something he would like to say about it.

How 9 See It

by Alma Henry

As time draws near for the Second Annual Festival of Afro Arts more community support is needed.

The executive director and the executive committee is looking for talent acts, parade participants and community service agencies to participate in the festivities on Saturday, March 21.

The Festival of Afro Arts a forum of expression for black history oral and written is also a forum which can be used by community service agencies to let the public know what services they offer.

An outdoor fair of sorts will be set up at the Lake Shore Park, the site of the annual festival and booths will be available to public service agencies at no cost to display their wares.

Do your part support the Festival of Afro Arts and let the community know who and what you are. *****

Last week it was brought to my attention I waste a lot of space talking much about nothing, thanks for the constructive criticism but thank you to all the reader who think I put this space to good use 99 percent of the time. *****

The Bethune Cookman College Choral group presented an excellent rendition of oral Black history at Glades Central Community School last Friday. The group under the direction of Dr. Rebecca Steele. Dr. Steele and her traveling singers from coast to coast presented one of the finest renditions of the Black National Anthem by James Weldon Johnson "Lift Every Voice and Sing".

Half way through the rendition and not receiving the honor the anthem deserves Dr. Steele stopped the chorus and with a fitting oral statement told blacks and white alike the importance of respecting the Black National Anthem and how to respect the anthem.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

As two members of the newly formed theatre group of the Glades, we feel it is unfair that the Prince Theatre Foundation has cancelled the production of Neil Simon play, "The Prisoner of Second Avenue."

The reason given for the cancellation was that the Foundation felt they had no choice; the real reason was that they fear losing the financial support of the churches in the Pahokee area. Reverend Simmons of the Church of God, chairman of the committee, feels that the play is "blasphemous" because of some of the language in it; thus influencing other members of the Foundation. The play is a simple comedy and is not blasphemous.

We are greatly disappointed in the Prince Theatre Foundation. We have worked hard for the past two months on this production to help stimulate the people of the Glades to become more involved with the Prince Theatre and then the Foundation tells us that we cannot perform a Neil Simon comedy. If they would not accept a simple comedy, then there will not be any plays performed in the Prince Theatre that would be above Mother Goose.

The Foundation is there to help in the betterment of the Prince Theatre, not to pass judgment on the productions before they are performed.

We cannot believe that people would condemn a comedy because of some of the language. The sort of language that is heard on television, in movies that are rated PG, in the schools and playgrounds. What really disturbs us is that our play was censored before anyone saw it, which is an example of people with closed minds. And these are the same people who want to bring change and culture into our area. The was the idea of renovating the Prince

Theatre in the first place. Cathy Leeman Anita Adams

Dear Sir:

I am writing in regards to the cancellation of the Neil Simon play, "The Prisoner of Second Avenue," by the Prince Theatre in Pahokee.

As a member of the cast, it was totally frustrating to think of the hours of hard work we have put into rehearsing the play only to have it called off due to a minister who isn't even on the Prince Theatre Committee.

This minister, who would not even confront the cast and production members directly, threatened the Prince Theatre's financial support if the committee allowed the play to go on, knowing that one man should have so much power!

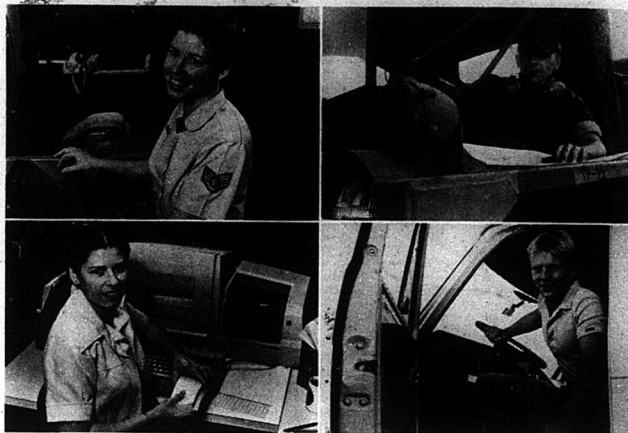

The play does have some profanity in it, of which even I am not fond, but what we're dealing with here is censorship. It isn't as if we were planning to put on an x-rated production. This play has actually been on television.

It's a shame the Prince Theatre committee cannot make decisions without being forced to succumb to the threats of outside citizens. If the minister is going to dictate as to what can or cannot be held at the theatre, why not make him a one-man committee?

When asked personally if they had strong objections to the play being held, the majority of the committee members present said no and several said they were looking forward to seeing it. Now if the members felt that way why not give the public a chance to see the play and judge for themselves? If the people in the Glades think the play is disgusting, then we will surely be shut down due to popular opinion.

Disorganize the lawyers

An idea proposed last week by visiting Conservative Caucus member Howard Phillips could prove to be an attractive alternative, especially in the midst of a national drive to cut federal expenses, to organizations such as Florida Rural Legal Services.

Phillips, who made no bones about the fact he has an ax to grind, proposed to members of the Western Palm Beach Farm Bureau near the end of a day-long visit to the Glades to look into the Okeechobee Center rent strike, that Legal Services around the country be eliminated in favor of a plan allowing all attorneys to deduct charitable services from their taxes.

Laying aside the enmity which has been generated among a major portion of the community by FRLS practices ranging through questionable at best to possibly illegal, Phillips' proposal could have several desirable benefits.

First of all, the people who can't afford to pay private attorney fees which are going through the ceiling would have a choice of attorneys. They wouldn't be forced to accept legal assistance from attorneys associated only with FRLS, the Legal Aid Society or the Public Defenders Offices.

They'd be able to go to the attorney of their choice and that would include lawyers specializing in particular areas of the law. That choice isn't now available unless the client has fairly substantial income to bankroll the service.

Secondly, such an alternative would eliminate the need for taxpayers to fund the management of the various legal services.

Thirdly, it would eliminate the building of a special interest group of attorneys interested solely in a clientele supported by taxpayers. Individual attorneys are prohibited by law from soliciting clients; why should taxpaid attorneys be permitted to do so?

Far from being rebels without causes, Legal Service attorneys all too often have a cause without a client. So they search for the client in order to build a class-action case and since they draw an annual salary from the public coffers, they have all the time in the world to build the case and find the clients.

The tax-deduction plan would still mean tax money could and probably would be used to file suit against supported agencies but it would eliminate the never-never land in which the same attorneys are filing the same types of suits on behalf of clients on a year-round basis.

The basic idea of providing the same protection of the courts as enjoyed by the more affluent for the less fortunate is a good one. It's neither moral nor just for justice to be dispensed with a bias toward that protection in court and Phillips' proposal merits consideration as a viable alternative to tax supported institutions such as Florida Rural Legal Services or, for that matter the Public Defenders office.

It's a shame!

It's a shame that the Prince Theatre is losing an award-winning play like The Prisoner of Second Avenue. Some kind of compromise ought to be reached between the Prince Theatre Foundation and the Glades Theatre Group to let the play go on in Pahokee as scheduled next month.

Both sides are miffed at one another and a lot of funny, smart remarks on the provincialism of the Glades could be made on the matter. It does appear that perhaps Pahokee residents are being a little self-righteous and reactionary.

But it is the Foundation's right and Pahokee's right to show or not to show Prisoner as well. The Glades Theatre Group, a bunch of energetic, dedicated folks, should try to meet the Foundation halfway, at least.

There is still time to ask permission from Neil Simon's publishers to change some of the profanity in Prisoner before the play is due to begin its run.

Both sides need to sit down one more time and try to reach a compromise.

I sure hope I can go to see this play performed where it was meant to be—in the Prince Theatre. And I hope that everybody can get over their hangups and the current controversy about it.

Scott Ellis

There are cuss words in the Second Avenue script. They are profane and profane. But they unfortunately happen to reflect a point of view and situation that is very realistic. To deny that people occasionally get angry and frustrated about the world they live in and sometimes utter less-than-holy epithets about their predicament is to deny reality.

The Prince Theatre Foundation is to be commended for its effort to have classy shows and family entertainment in the grand old Prince Theatre. But Prisoner Of Second Avenue was shown on television and in movie theatres throughout the nation. It has won Neil Simon (also the writer of delightful plays like Barefoot In The Park, The Goodbye Girl and Seems Like Old Times) many awards and accolades. It is not, as the Theatre Foundation implies, obscene simply because it has cuss words in it. If something is obscene because it has profane language, then the whole world is obscene because I think someone in every country has gotten mad and uttered a few naughty words once in a while. Even newspapermen!

Dean Jones
Cracker Grumbles

I always did think Barney Weeks was a pretty nice guy, not that I've known him as long as Mr. Bill, who said he was pretty nice even when they were in school together, but last week, we found out how far that goes.

The whole thing started, for me at least, Monday morning when I came in to work and after I'd been here awhile, a dog started barking.

Well, after it'd been barking for awhile, I stepped outside on the sidewalk to see what was happening...which made sense to me since that's where it sounded like the dog was.

Brenda, our gal Friday who sits at the front desk, said it sounded to her like the dog was under the floor. Not me. I finally figured out the animal was raising cane somewhere upstairs.

I knew this, you see, because the barking by then was obviously coming from somewhere around the stairwell that goes up to what used to be the CETA offices.

Went up and took a look around but by then the barking had stopped. The door was locked anyway so I came back downstairs and started reading the morning paper and sipping coffee again, going through the usual Monday morning ritual of waking up.

A few minutes later, the dog started barking again and I asked Brenda if she had the keys to upstairs. She said she did so I went back up, let myself in and went through every space up there I could find. Found a leaking faucet but that was it and as I looked out the back window into the alley between the Herald-Observer office and Seminole supply, I saw Barney Shining a flashlight under the building.

I asked him if he'd lost a dog and he said no, he was wondering if we were torturing one on our floor.

Turned out, we finally figured the dog was barking from somewhere under the building, where Brenda had said all along he was. To make matters worse, Barney and the other guys over at Seminole said they'd heard the animal all day Saturday, which meant the poor mut had been under there, obviously trapped, for three days by then.

The trouble is that it's what you'd call your average crawly under the office. These isn't just pipes and whatnot with decent dirt, or even mud, to crawl on. There's old timbers, broken building blocks and bricks under there, along with broken glass which could make it hard on the old knees.

Barney said he'd called the Animal Control Officers up at Pahokee earlier and they'd refused to even come down and check it out because their insurance doesn't cover them crawling under buildings.

They came on down and collect the dog, they told Barney but not until after someone went up under the building to drag the animal out.

To make matters worse, every time one of us would poke our heads under the building, the dog would start barking and crying. I guess he figured someone was coming in to get him out...either that or he was scared we were going to hurt him.

Well, this went on all day and by quitting time, everybody here and at Seminole was feeling sorry but no one was willing to crawl under there to see what was what. I couldn't crawl under that space anyway unless it was life and death because there isn't all that much space.

Oh yeah, I forgot. Earlier in the day, I'd dropped by the Fire Department and told Pete Webb what was happening and he sent a fireman around that morning but he hadn't had any more luck than the rest of us.

I finally called the Police Department about 6:30 and told Sgt. Murray what was happening and was there any suggestions he could offer. He said sure, he'd call Animal Control.

He did it and it wasn't too long before a young lady drove up in an Animal Control truck but after she'd shined her flashlight under the building and crawled up under it a little way, she gave me the same story Barney had gotten earlier in the day.

Barney finally had had it up to here Tuesday morning, waiting for someone else to do something and he crawled up under Seminole Supply, which no one had thought to do on Monday.

The dog's been there for four days by now, barking, crying and generally raising sand with us bright humans who refused to go under and give a hand to a poor pooch.

When he finally came out, Barney said he'd found the dog in what is apparently an old septic tank under the building that had been filled in to within about four feet of the ground surface. He'd somehow squirmed through a small crack and couldn't get back out.

I still wasn't sure what could be done but it wasn't long before we heard pounding from under the floor. Barney had crawled back under there with a couple of guys and he smashed enough concrete away to allow the dog to climb out on its own.

Now, they don't give medals for saving a pooch from under a building but I thought it was pretty darned nice. Thought some of the people of Belle Glade might be interested too.

Lady Raiders look for 20th basketball win Monday

BELLE GLADE -- A loss in their first game of the season, against Fort Pierce Central, is keeping the Lady Raiders from a perfect season but the Glades Central girls basketball team is looking for its 20th win of the year at the expense of Pahokee's girls.

The two Glades teams will tip off at 7 p.m. Monday and the staff Blue Devils will be attempting to do what no other conference team has done...knock off the Lady Raiders, who have totally dominated district and conference play again this year. The district playoffs take place next week. Since Atlantic disbanded its team early in the season, the only two games to be played will be Thursday when North Shore hosts Cardinal Newman, and Friday when Glades Central hosts the winner.

The Lady Raiders knocked off three more teams last week and Monday night, taking the measure of Jupiter Thursday with a score of 57-26, wallowing Fort Pierce Westwood, 88-40 on Saturday and whipping North Shore Monday night in a 42-29 victory. Coach Mike Logsdon said, "Joye Burroughs failed to reach her 19 points a game average Monday but a balanced attack by the Lady Raiders made up for it after a tight first half ended with Glades Central leading by only two points."

"They (North Shore) tried to slow the ball down on us," Logsdon said. They played us a real good game and we had a poor game to say the least. The big quarter was the third, when we outscored them, 15-4. The Bussie sisters (Dianne and Denise) scored ten of those 15 points. Our team did well enough to get a comfortable margin after the third period."

He said the Raiders held Andrea Cowart, the Lady Mustangs' leading scorer, with an average of 20 points a game, to four points, "so we did pretty good on defense."

Burroughs scored 11 points and made three rebounds, nine steals and 10 assists. She was followed by Mary West with nine points, two steals, one assist, 12 rebounds and four blocked shots; Dianne Bussie with eight points, 11 rebounds, two steals and one assist; Denise Bussie with eight points, three steals and four assists; Jessica Hansford with six points, nine rebounds, two steals and two assists and Karen Gooden with two rebounds and one assist.

Logsdon said he, "was real pleased," with the game against Westwood. "We outscored them, 18-5 in the first quarter. From there on, it just got worse. I was real pleased with Jessica Hansford. She came on with her best game this year, both offensively and defensively, and of course, Mary (West) had those good blocked shots for us." Hansford led the scoring in the Westwood game, scoring 24 points, 13 rebounds, two steals and two assists against the she-panthers.

She was followed by West with 20 points, 16 rebounds, one steal and five blocked shots; Burroughs with 19 points, two rebounds, 13 steals and 14 assists; Denise Bussie with eight points, six steals and four assists; Dianne Bussie with six points, 12 rebounds, two steals and two assists;

Gloria Stewart with seven points, six rebounds, two steals and two assists; Karen Gooden with four points six rebounds and one steal; Cassandra Strachan with three assists and Davena Johnson with two assists.

In last Thursday's win over Jupiter, Logsdon said the Raiders started strong, with an 18-6 lead in the first quarter. "After that, it was pretty much of a blowout." He said the Lady Raiders held leading Jupiter scorer, Kim Pellegrini to 12 points. Pellegrini has a 28 points per game average. Burroughs led the scoring with 18 points, two rebounds, 12 assists and seven steals. She was followed by Hansford with 12 points, 10 rebounds, three steals and two assists; West with 11 points, 15 rebounds, one steal and one assist; Dianne Bussie with eight points, 11 rebounds and one steal; Denise Bussie with six points, three steals and four assists; Gooden with three rebounds, Stowart with two points and three rebounds and Strachan with one assist.

Hook, line and slinker

Hello again, fishing fans. It's time to catch up on the "Who's Who" and "what's what" of fishing on the "Big O."

Well, we finally have been blessed with some real Florida weather. It's time to get out the old tackle, hook up the boat and get set for some real fine fishing. Whether your bag is bass fishing, specks or just enjoying a nice day on the water, you can get in on the action. The fish seem to be enjoying the good weather about as much as the fishermen. Both speck and bass fishing is improving every day.

If you are searching for old Mr. Bass, you might keep in mind that these critters are being caught mostly in very shallow water around reeds and pepperglass. Spoons and shiners are the big producers with plastic worms running a close race.

Specieed per fishing is improving with catches of up to 80 fish per boat being reported. Most of these tasty critters are being caught on minnows and red/yellow jigs. Fish the ledges along the rim canal both north and south of the fish camp. Slim's Fish Camp held its Bass 'n Classic No. 2 on Sunday, Feb. 1. Two local bass fishermen, Carl Courson and Jeff Hansford, took top honors and a $500 purse with a total of 43 pounds, 14 ounces. Jimmy McMillan and Darrell Mathis, both of Belle Glade, and Bobby Roland, fishing with Richard Vance of Clewiston, tied for third place with a total of 33 pounds, 15 ounces. Mike Checkley and Howard Mosberger, both winter residents of the Belle Glade Marina, took eighth place with 26 pounds, one ounce. Big fish honors went to Johnny Jones of Fort Lauderdale for his nine pound, nine ounce luner.

He received a borm fishing rod and an Ambassador reel for his effort.

The Slim's Bass 'n Classic No. 3 will be held on April 1-5. Anyone interested in fishing this 100 per cent payback tournament can contact Herschel Snyder or myself for details.

Good fishing, Buddy Norris.

Glades Day has a great week

By Scott Ellis

It was a great week for Gator basketball as the Glades Day High School guys downed their three opponents and the girls split their two matches.

The boys beat Indian River in a away match, 25-5 Friday night and bested St. Edwards in a thriller at home Tuesday, the Gators beat Moore Haven 63-60.

The Moore Haven win was especially satisfying because this district foe had beaten Glades Day earlier in the year. Coach Dick Schmidt said, "But he was a little miffed at how his team blew an 18-point lead in the last quarter, as Moore Haven surged back to tie the game at 58-58 with less than a minute left. Part of the reason for the surge was the Gators' 9 last period turnovers."

With 22 seconds to go in the Moore Haven match, Andy Fontaine scored his only basket of the game to put Glades Day up 60-58. Greg Chaney hit a free throw with 14 seconds to go to make it 61-58.

Moore Haven's Billy Gadsen hit a field goal at :06 however, putting the score at 61-60. The Gators' Dan Ross was fouled with a second to go. He hit both of his free throw attempts to make the final tally 63-60.

Leading scorer and rebounder in the Moore Haven contest was Tom Swager, who had 18 points and 18 rebounds. Next in scoring were Ross, 13; Jason Shelton, 10; Richard Schiele, 9; Chaney, 8; Scott Meredith, 3; Fontaine, 2.

Versus Indian River, Swager again led in scoring with 17. Next were Shelton, 16; Ross 12; Chaney, 11; Schiele and Meredith, 10; Oscar Toledo, 8; Tom Wilson, 5; Fontaine, 3.

Against St. Edwards, Swager was still hot, netting 20. Next was Ross, Schiele and Shelton with 12 each; Chaney, 8; Tom Wilson, 5; Fontaine, 3; and Wilson, 2.

Walter Schultz led St. Edwards with 14.

Swager led in rebounds versus Indian River, 14; and Schiele led versus St. Edwards, with 10.

With Glades Day record now 12-6 and with their recent wins over district opponents, Schmidt thinks a win over Benjamin away this Friday would really enhance the Gators' district title chances.

The District Tournament is to be held at Glades Day School the last weekend in February. Glades Day also plays at Christian Day Saturday.

The Gators girls won at Indian River, 42-16, but lost to Moore Haven 55-41. Leading scorers at Indian River were Kelly Teets, with 13 and Angie Adams with 13. Versus Moore Haven, Teets scored 11, while Tammy Scruggs got 10.

The girls are now 5-7. The junior varsity whipped St. Edwards, 71-10, upping their record to 7-2. Against their foes, the Gators shot almost 50 percent from the field.

Leading Gator scorers were Frank Thompson, 14; Mike Basore, 14; Garcia, Brian Lohman and Tim Norman with 12, 10, 10 and 9, respectively. Jose Perez led in rebounding with 12.

ORLANDO -- The Glades produce several individual and team winners at the Fourth Annual Special Olympics Winter Games held this weekend, Feb. 7 and 8 at the Naval Training Base in Orlando.

Four Glades teams came back glittering with gold medals. Pahokee High School sponsored two boys teams in basketball and came away with the State championship for the senior and junior boys division I. Mike McCoy and Clark Selfand coached the Pahokee teams. The Junior boys beat Okaloosa County 46 to 38 and the senior boys beat Plant High School from Tampa with a four minute stall that saw the gym erupt with pandemonium the final 10 seconds.

The final score was 41 to 38.

The Glades Central Community School girls were victorious in Division I. The Raiders defeated Gaston County. Ms. Enis Adams a teacher at GCCS was the team coach.

The fourth team to represent the Glades was the Association for Retarded Citizens -- Glades Area.

Three Association for Retarded Citizens won individual events. Tawana Lovett placed first in bowling, Lucille Oliver received her gold medal for a tumbling routine in gymnastics, and Don McDaniels beat out 10 boys to get a gold in the run, dribble and shoot contest.

Kent Stevens of GCCS also won a gold medal in floor exercise and tumbling.

Mrs. Ricky McCoy, program coordinator for the local ARC, accompanied the students to the Winter games.

Mrs. McCoy said all three schools will begin actively working toward seeking victories in the Summer Olympics games that begin March 14 on track and field events.

"Practice has already begun for the state with Mike Underwood and the City of Belle Glade recreation department helping with the events," said McCoy.

Sugar milling, the final step

By SCOTT ELLIS

Editor's Note: This is the final part in our three-part series on the milling of Glades sugar cane. We wish to thank the Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of The Glades for its cooperation in the writing of this series.

Giant claws operated from a crane toss the cane into the first milling process—cutting and shredding.

From this step, the cane is next crushed and juiced is extracted. A fibrous residue, bagasse, remains after the juice is taken out. The bagasse is sent on to Quacker Oats' chemical plant, adjacent to the mill. Quacker extracts an industrial alcohol called purfural from the bagasse, sending the residue from the bagasse back to the mill. The mill then burns the residue to generate electricity. McPhail said the mill is completely self-supporting, buying little or no power from outside sources.

After the juice is first extracted, it's treated with lime before going on to the juice heaters. After heating, the liquid goes to clarifying tanks where impurities are allowed to settle.

Evaporators are next on the sugar juice's journey, where most of the water in the juice is taken out and the liquid remaining becomes thick.

But to get sugar crystals to form, even more water must be removed. The syrup is then heated in large, dome-shaped vacuum pans, causing it to boil at low temperatures. This process creates a mixture of crystals and molasses.

This mixture travels on to crystalizers for cooling, causing the growth of still more crystals.

In the final step, the molasses is separated from the crystals in high-speed centrifuges. These machines turn at 1,800 rpm. The resulting light-amber raw sugar is 98.8 percent pure, and is shipped to refineries. McPhail said most of his company's sugar is sent to refineries in Savannah, Ga. The mill produces an average of 1,800 tons of sugar per day, with a total value of around $10 million, McPhail said.

If the sugar is not shipped immediately, it is stored in one of the mill's four warehouses, with a total capacity of 340,000 tons. The mill also sells its molasses, shipping it in railroad tank cars.

Local police registers bikes

By DEAN JONES

BELLE GLADE — A roomful of stolen bicycles confiscated in a recent arrest, along with the inability of returning some of them to the owners, has resulted in a program sponsored by local police officers to register bikes with the Police Department.

Patrolman Paul Patti said Monday the bike owners of at least some of the bikes confiscated in the arrest are known but they can't be returned because of a stipulation of the law.

Patti said the law requires that before the bikes can be returned, the owner must have some positive proof of ownership, such as the serial number. Until that proof is forthcoming, he said the Department would have to hold onto the bikes and they'll probably be sold eventually in an auction.

Some of the new ten speed bicycles, Patti said are worth $150 or more and one of these has been described by a person who says he owned it before it was stolen but since he can't prove it, he can't recover it.

Patti said that's why he suggested some time back that the police get involved in a registration program under which an owner would not only have proof positive of ownership but would have that proof on file with the police.

The first step, according to the plan, takes place when the owner brings his bike in to have it registered. The bike is assigned a number and that number is stamped into the bike metal with a set of numbered dies.

The number is entered on two three-by-five cards, which also contain the owner's name and other information. The cards are cross-indexed by owner's name and the number assigned the bike.

A form letter, containing the number, is issued to the owner. The letter includes tips on how to prevent theft, including the use of case hardened steel locks, using chains long enough to reach through the frame and both wheels and to avoid leaving bicycles in open garages and carports.

Patti said the registration program should help cut down the number of thefts as well as increase the chances for recovery once a bike is stolen because a sticker will be placed on the bike identifying it as being registered with the Police Department.

"There's one case that really made me feel bad," Patti said. "There's an elderly woman who bought two bikes last year for her grandchildren's Christmas. The bikes cost $170 and she spent another $220 because she could only pay a little at a time; that's more than the bikes were worth."

"She finally paid them off but a couple of days before Christmas, someone came along and stole them. They were not among the ones we recovered but they're out there somewhere."

Patti said he came up with the idea some time ago to register bicycles but he only recently got around to it after he was injured and was put on limited duty. Since it was his idea and he had the time, he was given the task of organizing the registration.

He made the point that the only cost to the taxpayers will be the on-duty time put into it.

He said he has already notified the area schools, asking them to pass the word along to students about the registration program, and he intends to ask local merchants for help also. He said he will also hold a special registration day from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday at the Police Station.

BLOODMOBILE TO BE HERE FEB. 19

BELLE GLADE — The Palm Beach Blood Bank Bloodmobile will spend the day in Belle Glade Thursday, Feb. 19 to collect blood from donors according to Madeline Chapman, director of donor procurement.

Ms. Chapman said the Bloodmobile will be in the parking lot of the Holiday Inn from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and at the City Fire Station from 2 to 5 p.m.

Lions seek $8,000 in donations

By Alma Henry

PAHOKEE — The Canal Point and Pahokee Lions Clubs recently kicked off a major fund raising event to raise $8,000 to purchase a Hurst Tool (Jaws of Life) for the Pahokee Ambulance Service.

Earl E. Hingson, chairman of the project for the Canal Point Lions Club said the "Jaws of Life" is a very necessary and important life saving machinery the local ambulance service needs.

"When Jack and Ada Bush were trapped in their vehicle in Port Mayaca we had to wait until a unit from the Belle Glade Fire Department arrived with the Jaws of Life to cut the Bushs out of their car," said Hingson.

The two local Lions

Clubs have donated $500 each towards the purchase of the Hurst Tool.

Duncan Padgett is serving as chairman of the project for the Pahokee Lions Club and said donations can be mailed to either of the clubs, or be given to any Lions Club member or employees of the Pahokee Ambulance Service.

Hingson said the committee is asking all local businesses, clubs, sororities, organizations, churches, and individuals in the Pahokee and Canal Point communities to make donations toward the purchase.

"We will be selling shares for as low as $1 and as high as $10,000," said Hingson. "We will be issuing certificates to those who purchase a share or shares," he added.

Padgett said the "Jaws of Life" will always remain with the Pahokee Ambulance Service regardless who has the contract to operate to local ambulance service.

"The Jaws of Life will always be in Pahokee to serve the residents of Canal Point and Pahokee," said Padgett.

On last Thursday, Feb. 5, the Lions Club members and the Pahokee Ambulance Service participated in a demonstration with the Hurst Tool at Wallace Barnes Used Car Lot.

Darryl Huff an employee with Fire Fighter Equipment of Jacksonville with the assistance of Dennis Delucia, director of the local ambulance service, and Mike Paulson, assistant director cut through a Ford Torino.

The Hurst Tool the Lions plan to purchase and the type used in the demonstration was the scissors type and is run by a small kerosene engine.

Persons wishing to make donations to the Jaws of Life fund raiser can mail their contributions to Glen Campbell, president of the Canal Point Lions Club, P.O. Box 605, Canal Point 33438 or to Dr. Philip Provenza, president of the Pahokee Lions Club, P.O. Box 218, Pahokee, Fla. 33476.

All checks should be made out to Lions Club Jaws of Life Fund Drive.

Mr. Bill's blood pressure boils

Last Wednesday I awoke with probably the worst blood pressure attack that I had in about ten years. Since it was 7 a.m., I decided to go to the emergency room at Glades General Hospital.

Having worked in the emergency room at St. Mary's Hospital in West Palm Beach for over a year and being the business manager for two other hospitals for over seven years, I have to admit what I experienced was quite a let down.

In the first place if it weren't an emergency I wouldn't have gone to their emergency room. It's not exactly my favorite place because my father died there. I can see that in the past 15 years, it has not changed much either.

It sorta starts out with the room spinning around and around, and then, you go practically blind with blurred vision. It's more frightening than painful but after the blurred vision stops, it's kinda like a horse kicks you in the back of your head. Needless to say it makes for quite a headache.

Keeping in mind when I arrived at the emergency room at 7:45 a.m. the blurred vision having continued for nearly an hour, I was thinking that "Oh Elizabeth, this is the big one."

The secretary in the emergency room pulled out a blank chart and started to fill it out. Last name? First name? Middle initial? Address? Phone number? Social Security number? Do you have insurance? etc." After 15 minutes it finally comes, "Sign here." Have a seat, someone will be with you in a minute.

It is now 8:20 a.m. and the blurred vision is beginning to subside and the horse had just kicked me in the head. Around 8:30, my first doctor breezes through the emergency door, says hello and goes on down the corridor. Having seen him, I know that my problem is nearly solved. Not so.

At 8:35 a.m. an aide comes out of the emergency room, sits down beside me and asks what my problem is. She is 158/120. That takes my blood pressure. It is 158/120. That's not bad when you're 65 but I'm 60.

At 8:45, the same aide comes back and says that my doctor will see me in his office that morning and to call him for an appointment. I was then asked to sign a release that said Glades General Hospital was no longer responsible for me. Left the emergency room at 8:50 a.m. The reason that I can be pretty specific is because I had the biggest clock watcher in the world with me...my mother.

At this point, I decided to take two aspirin and go to work. Called the doctor's office and was informed that he would see me at 4:15 p.m. on Thursday. Realizing at this point, "it wasn't the biggie", I went to work.

About noon I started to feel pretty rough again, but decided not to complain. I simply lifted the phone and called another doctor. I'm fine now and have a new doctor. It's just too bad, I can't lift the phone and have a new hospital.

Students receive RIF books at East Lake

PAHOKEE — East Lake Middle School students had a treat in store for them Monday when they visited the school library. Instead of hearing the usual "don't forget to return all books," the students were told to select a book of their choice from approximately 700 books that need not be returned.

Mrs. Eugenia Jones, assistant principal at East Lake said Monday the first shipment of Reading is Fundamental books were distributed to more than 500 students attending the schools.

Mrs. Jones said the books were made possible through a donation from the Mu Rho Omega Chapter of Alpha Kappa Sorority, Inc., and the Palm Beach County School Board.

Reading is Fundamental a national reading program designed to encourage students to read more during their leisure time in its first year of operation at East Lake Middle School although the national program is out of money.

Mrs. Jones said

through the help of the local sorority and the school board East Lake was able to participate in the program this year.

"Although we did not receive funding from RIF we still used their guidelines in purchasing and distributing the books", said Mrs. Jones.

"One of RIF guidelines is that each student be allowed to select his own book with only minor supervision from the teacher", Mrs. Jones added.

The students had a wide selection of books ranging from mystery to history.

Mrs. Jones said a second distribution of RIF books is planned during the spring.

"Just think by the time a fifth grade student finishes East Lake they would have received at least three books," Mrs. Jones said.

Final plans announced

BELLE GLADE—Final wedding plans were announced this week for Miss Joanne Ranchich Mayo and Frank H. Moody, both of Belle Glade.

No local invitations will be sent. All relatives and friends of the couple are invited to attend. A reception will follow the ceremony.

Valentine luncheon planned

PAHOKEE — The Glades Ebonyque Ladies Club of Pahokee is presenting its Second annual Valentine's Day Senior Citizens Luncheon at 11 a.m., Saturday, Feb. 14 at the Padgett Island Center.

All senior citizens in the Pahokee area are invited to participate in the Valentine's Day program and luncheon planned. Mr. and Mrs. Valentine's Day will be crowned during the luncheon.

TAKING IT FROM THE TOP

By REV. DAVID T. EVANS
Everglades Presbyterian Church

In this column two weeks ago your writer talked about the pastor of the local church and how important the job is all that is required, and how much is expected. The pastor is the key to the life of most churches.

The problem is not that the pastor doesn't try to do all things but that the person filling the job does try to do them all. The pastor is called (in some case of some) or comes to the church without a clear understanding of the needs and desires of the membership. The search or the pastoral relations committee who acts for the congregation in securing a pastor to lead a particular church seek to get someone who sounds good, looks good and impresses them as a capable, dedicated person. When the person is installed or begins work, the committee disappears and is not heard of again.

With the new enthusiasm and new pastor the attendance goes up and interest grows during the "honeymoon period". Then people get busy and involved with family, business and friends outside the church. A full sets in and interest dies down and almost out. The attendance drops off and with that the offering goes down.

New people attend church but fail to join or if they do they are soon lost because the spirit is lacking and morale is low. Instead of outreach there is infighting or withdrawal. The pastor is in despair and the officers start talking about getting a new pastor.

The pastor needs to have a clear understanding of what the leadership of the church wants and if possible what the congregation needs and wants. This can be helped by a joint consultation or in depth discussion by committees and officers of the church with the pastor.

The pastor not only needs encouragement but chances for spiritual growth. Continuing education is one way we get this and contact with other ministers with a sympathetic ear is another. Only other ministers can understand and appreciate the problems of communication and personality conflicts. The pastor must above all, have good spiritual inspiration continually or damaging erosion will take place.

Men Day observance Sunday

BELLE GLADE — The New Bethel Baptist Church will observe its annual Men Day at 11 a.m. and 4 p.m., Sunday, Feb. 15.

Willie Floyd, Sr., is serving as chairman and J.T. McCoy, as co-chairman.

The Rev. James Allen Jackson, assistant chaplain at Glades Correctional Institution will be the 11 a.m. speaker.

Rev. Jackson also is serving as associate minister at Glendale Missionary Baptist Church in Richmond Heights.

Married and the father of six, Rev. Jackson is attending Southern Baptist Seminary Extension of New Orleans and has attended Savannah State College, New York Community College and C. Setab Computer Institute of New York.

The Alpha Phi Omega Fraternity and Torch Club will render the 4 p.m. services.

Charles Dailey, a member of the fraternity and director of Alumni Affairs for Florida Memorial College of Miami will be the speaker.

The public is invited to attend. Dinner will be served following the 11 a.m. services.

PHS to observe Black History Month

PAHOKEE — In celebration of February, National Black History Month Pahokee High School will be one of the highlights of the week long programs and services Feb. 16 through 20.

Kevin Boynton, a member of the Black History Committee said one of the highlights of the week long observance will be an old time revival scheduled from 12 to 1 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 16 in the school patio.

"The Rev. Jump-n-run Boynton will preach an old time, hell-fire, and brimstone sermon," said Boynton.

Kicking the week of celebration off will be a "slave auction" from 12 to 1 p.m. on Monday, Feb. 16 in the school patio. "Come and buy the slave of your choice who will serve you for a whole day," said Boynton.

Tuesday, Feb. 17 is Red Green and Black Day. Everyone is asked to wear red, green, black and black liberation colors. A dance in the patio will be held during the lunch hour also.

The annual Black history program will be held Wednesday and will feature the Pahokee High School chorus.

Thursday is slave day, persons purchasing slaves on Monday can claim the slave for the entire day. There will be skits depicting different events in Black History during the lunch hour in the school patio also.

"Help us to make this year's Black History celebrating a success," said Boynton.

GCSS to participate in festival

Glades Central Community High School drama students will be among the featured in 11 high schools participating Feb. 12-14 in the annual Palm Beach Junior College High School Drama Festival in the PBJC Auditorium, according to Frank Leashy, festival director.

Leashy said this will be the largest-ever festival and, as usual, all events are open to the public with no charge for admission.

The Feb. 12 schedule will run from 8:30 a.m. until 4 p.m., with the 11 schools presenting their plays, to be critiqued by guest critic George head of the drama department at Palm Beach Atlantic College.

The best plays chosen will be presented Friday and Saturday, Feb. 13-14, at 8 p.m. in the PBJC Auditorium.

The Glades Central students, directed by Sarah B. Bennett, will perform "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown".

Leashy commented that of the 11 high school directors participating in the festival, seven of them are former PBJC students, including Mrs. Bennett.

MAN or STATUE?

Today we see Lincoln in heroic size. He appears almost more of a statue than a man — a great figure cast in bronze, with a furrowed brow and solemn countenance.

Yet Lincoln was a man. He walked the earth, and felt love and joy, but he knew tremendous frustration and almost insurmountable sorrow. He prayed, earnestly and effectively.

Throughout each crisis in his life, and there were many, he was sustained by faith. God seemed close to him, and he turned to Him often. He didn't pause to think about whether he'd go to church or not. He went.

Do you?

ENERGY BRIEFS

Tips on saving fuel and money from experts at Mobil. A motor oil that saves fuel.

WATER WISDOM

Don't waste hot water. Showers require less hot water than tub baths, and you may even consider an inexpensive showerhead attachment that saves still more hot water. Aerator on your kitchen faucet will also help.

When running your washing machine, drier, or dishwasher, make sure you have a full load each time. Turn your dishwasher off when it reaches the drying cycle and let dishes dry naturally. (In winter, opening the dishwasher door after the rinse cycle will provide heated and well-humidified air while dishes dry.)

Do as much of your household cleaning as possible with cold water. Repair leaky faucets immediately. Make sure your hot-water heater thermostat is set no higher than 140°F. 120°F is even better and will save an extra 18% of energy.

For additional efficiency, have your hot-water heater well insulated. Check all other electric appliances for energy efficiency, especially when you purchase new ones.

EXTRA! SAVE ALL DAY!

Daylight Savings Time went into effect in the United States for the first time on March 31, 1918.

The motto "In God We Trust" first appeared on the 1864 two-cent piece.
